SCHOOL BACKGROUND

The Knockalva Polytechnic College located in the parish of Hanover in the rural community of Ramble, sits on approximately two hundred (200) acres of land. It began in 1940 as a practical training center, and by 1962, began offering two-year vocational training to students within the age range of 15-17, who were unable to continue their education, but could learn practical skills in Agriculture.

The institution has recently been restructured and rebranded, and whilst there will be a continued focus on agriculture, science, the arts and sports this rebranding will see the Polytechnic concept embracing 21st century trends and practices in Agriculture, as well as providing new offerings in areas such as Hydroponics, Aquaponics, Agricultural Engineering, Green House Technology, among other programmes. The College is being established under the umbrella of the Council of Community Colleges in Jamaica.
